SPECIFICATIONS

The Wind Monkey Skystream is a new generation power appliance that hooks up to your home, office, or industrial building to help you reduce or eliminate your monthly electricity costs. It's the first compact, user-friendly, all-inclusive wind generator (with controls and inverter built in) designed to provide quiet, clean electricity in very low winds. With Wind Monkey's energy solutions, factories, homeowners, and business owners now have the power to choose their electricity source. Skystream is the first wind-powered, grid-connected power appliance that produces electricity for less than the retail rate of many utilities. Since everything is built in and there are no significant maintenance costs, once your Skystream is operating and the wind is blowing, you'll see an immediate reduction in electricity costs. Depending on your installed cost, cost of electricity, and average wind speed, Skystream can pay for itself in as little as five years. Some states offer investment incentives in the form of rebates that improve the cost payback. California requires that all utilities allow Net Metering for all customer classes for systems up to 1,000 kW (1 MW). There is also a Federal tax credit that makes wind power a very attractive solution for companies, homes, and businesses looking to offset power costs.
